The Times' Daily Short Story.

The Minister's Plowing

Things came about one spring day that Farmer Johnson, living two miles from the village of Lansing, traded a number of hogs and calves and a cow for a yoke of oxen. Farmer Johnson had been a farmer for a good many years, but had never owned a yoke of oxen. He was a good man and a member of a church congregation in the village, and his wife was known far and wide for her gentleness and benev-

The robins were tuning up their lyres and making ready to build their nests and go in for the simple life when the farmer yoked up his oxen and hitched them to the plow and started in to break the soll of a five acre lot which was to be planted to potatoes. The exen turned a furrow twenty rods long and then decided to rest. They were coaxed and argued with, but they were obdurate. Not an hour's work was got out of them that whole day.

The May sun was shining just as brightly and the May robins were singing just as gayly when the farmer and his oxen started in on the second day. Peace on earth and good will to men seemed to prevail all along the line, but a close observer would have acticed that the farmer's jaw was set and that the oxen bad a defiant tess of the head. Things developed early. When two furrows had been plowed across the land the oxen suddenly storted and ran away, and plow and farmer were dragged along for ten minutes before there was a halt.

When the oxen were brought out after dinner the farmer was armed with a stout club, and the light of Bunker Hill shope in his eyes. Perhaps the bovines and premonition of the coming cyclone, for they jogged along in a sober and industrious way for half an hour before breaking out; then it was another runaway and a halt in a fence corner. They had only stopped to breathe when the farmer was on top of them with his club. He also broke forth into language. He clubbed and he exclaimed; he pounded and he ejaculated; he walloyed and he cussed.

One of the travelers along the highway that afternoon was the widow Barnes. She belonged to the same church as the Johnsons. She drove up as the circus was in full swing, and, jumping out of her buggy, she mounted the rondside fence and shricked out: "Stop that! Stop that! Samuel John-

Prison for Thirty-eight of the Potemkin's Crew - Many More Jewish Massacres Have Been

Sebastopol Feb 20.-A court-maritial here has sentenced 42 of the mutineers of the Russian battleshp Kniaz Potemkine to imprisonment from one to It years. Twenty five men were acquitted.
The mild sentences imposed by the court-martial are explained by the fact the accused were mainly sailors who voluntarily surrendered at Kno-tenji, Roumania. The accusations specified that they participated in the mutiny only under threat of death by the real mutineers who were in Roumania and beyond the reach of Russian justice. Ensign and Quartermaster Alexeyeff, who commanded the robel ship, escapes with mere ex-clusion from the service and no loss of rank which, as it is in the naval reserve, s practically no punishment. The other two omcers, an ensign and a surgeon and a boatswain, lose their rank, but are not scutenced to imprisonment. The sailors were condemned to short terms of imprisonment or acquitted,

The most severe punishment was awarded to the six active mutineers whose boat was fired on and captured at Theodosin, one being condemned to 15 years and the others to shorter terms

A great many Americans, both men and women, are thin, pale and puny, with poor circulation, because they have illtreated their stomachs by hasty eating or too much eating, by consuming alcebolic beverages, or by too closs confinement to home, office or factory, and in consequence the stomach must be treated in a natural way before they can rectify their earlier mistakes. The muscles in many such people, in fact in every weary, thin and thin-blooded person, do their work with great difficulty. As a result fatigue comes early, is extreme and lasts long. The demand for nutritive aid is ahead of the supply. To insure perfect health every tissue, bone, nerve and muscle should take from the blood certain materials and return to it certain others. It is necessary to prepare the stomach for the work of taking up from the food what is necessary to make good, rich, red blood. We must go to Nature for the remedy. There were certain roots known to the Indians of this country before the advent of the whites which later came to the knowledge of the settlers and which are now growing rapidly in professional favor for the cure of obstinate stomach and liver troubles. These are found to be safe and yet certain in their cleansing and invigorating effect upon the stomach, liver and blood. These are: Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Stone root, Bloodroot, Mandrake root. Then there is Black Cherryburk. TO CHECK Trust to Nature.
